

THANKSGIVING PRAYER

*H*ere we step off the shore
into deep water.

Here we leave everything that protects us
to hold hands
around the table of our Life.

These hands held—the ones on your left and your right—
are God's investment in you.

They are wealth beyond measure,
a deposit to the bank of your heart.

*E*very year at this dinner
we make a withdrawal—

We spend freely all our thanksgiving gold on family and friends.

Stop, look around you!

Here is your wife or your husband.

There sit your child, your brother or sister.

There are parents, grandparents, aunts and uncles,
your friends.

Even the Dead, all those Elders who bred us—
so sit the absent,
long loved and distant,
living now dearly in the house of our heart.

*E*ach one round this table
is Arabia's jeweled treasure—

Whom do we know here, we would trade
for mere gold?

*S*ome invisible Great Ones came here before us—
they lit our small candle, they gave us this life.

They buried a great treasure, they sent us to find it.

May we honor them well and the First One who made us—
may we each find our brightness,
our prism of soul.

*F*or we are ourselves the gold of Thanks-Giving,
and each to the other,
today at this meal,
a joy to be spent without restraint!

—RICHARD WEHRMAN